Responsibility of the Management Board and Supervisory Board for the financial statements

Management Board of the Company is responsible for the preparation, on the basis of properly maintained accounting records, of financial statements which give a true and fair view of the Company's financial position and results in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards as adopted by the European Union, adopted accounting principles (policy) and applicable laws and the Company's Articles of Association, as well as for the internal control which Management Board considers necessary to ensure that financial statements free of material misstatements due to fraud or error are prepared.

In preparing the financial statements, the Company's Management Board is responsible for assessing the Company's ability to proceed as a going concern, disclosing, if applicable, matters relating to going concern and adopting the going concern principle as the basis of accounting, except where the Management Board either intends to liquidate the Company or discontinue operations or has no viable alternative to liquidation or discontinuation of operations.

The Company's Management Board and members of the Supervisory Board are obliged to ensure that the financial statements meet the requirements provided for in the Accounting Act. Members of the Supervisory Board are responsible for supervising the financial reporting process of the Company.

Auditor's responsibility for the audit of the financial statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance that the financial statements as a whole do not contain material misstatement due to fraud or error and to issue an audit report containing our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but does not guarantee that an audit performed in accordance with National Audit Standards will always detect a material misstatement that exists. Distortions may be caused by fraud or error and are considered material if it can be reasonably expected that, individually or collectively, they could influence the economic decisions taken on the basis of these financial statements.

The scope of the audit does not include assurances as to the Company's future profitability or the effectiveness or efficiency of the management of its affairs by the Company's Management Board at present or in the future.

When auditing in accordance to National Audit Standards, we use professional judgement and maintain professional scepticism, as well as:

- identify and evaluate the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures that are appropriate to those risks and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and adequate to provide a basis for our audit opinion. The risk of not detecting material misstatement due to fraud is greater than that due to error, as fraud may involve collusion, falsification, intentional omissions, misrepresentation or circumvention of internal control;
- obtain an understanding of the internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the given circumstances, but not to express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control;
- assess the adequacy of the accounting principles (policy) applied and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by the Companys Management Board;
- draw a conclusion on the applicability by the Management Board of the Company of the going concern principle as the basis of accounting and, based on the evidence obtained, whether there is a material uncertainty related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that there is material uncertainty, we are required to draw attention in our audit report to related disclosures in the financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, we modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on audit evidence obtained up to the date of our audit report, but future events or conditions may cause the Company to discontinue its business;
- assess the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial statements, including disclosures, and whether the financial statements present the underlying transactions and events in a manner that ensures a fair presentation.

We provide the Supervisory Board with information on, among other things, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant findings of the audit, including any significant internal control weaknesses that we identify in the process.

We declare to the Supervisory Board that we have complied with the relevant ethical requirements for independence and that we will inform them of all affiliations and other matters that could reasonably be considered as a threat to our independence and, where applicable, inform them of the safeguards applied.

From among the matters submitted to the Supervisory Board, we determined those matters which were the most significant during the audit of the financial statements for the current reporting period and therefore we considered them as key audit matters. We describe these matters in our audit report unless a law or regulation prohibits public disclosure or, in exceptional circumstances, we determine that the matter should not be presented in our report because it would reasonably be expected that the negative consequences would outweigh the benefits of such information in the public interest.
